

Jessy Van Gorp

Jessy Van Gorp is an interior designer who appreciates the beauty of simplicity. Her thirst for cultural knowledge, travelling, and exploring consistently culminates in timeless and balanced projects. With this in mind, we are happy to feature Z Residence, a large new built project for a family of four. One of the main goals was to conjure a quiet atmosphere, as well as a clean and sober appearance. This means, among others, that there is an extraordinary harmony present in both the materials of choice and the meticulous details. According to the designer herself, she also enjoyed creating engaging perspectives and an interconnection of open spaces. Concerning the materials, she incorporated natural stone, tinted and brushed oak, cotton, and more. The result is a clear example of the tranquillity that all her projects possess and entices anyone to keep an eye on her future endeavours. While many wishes are fulfilled by the result, one of the main takeaways that we will remember from this design is the omnipresent living comfort.
